Physical description of property and statement of historical significance:

The former Carnegie Library is a one story brick building with a full basement. It has a hip roof and one-over-one double hung sash windows, many of which have concrete lintels. The interior of the building is mostly milled fir boards.

The structure was one of many throughout Oregon and Washington constructed with grant assistance from the Carnegie Foundation during 1898-1916. In 1912, by contract with the Wasco County Court for library service, it became The Dalles City-Wasco County Library. This building served The Dalles area for 56 years as a public library.
